Good News Here Winding Down a War APA Convention Flak

In summarizing business conditions nationally most observers call the condition spotty—not so good in some sections, excellent in others, and nowhere any feeling of panic. It so happens that two states I know something about—Arkansas and Florida—are doing well, particularly Arkansas, and especially Hope. You read in last Wednesday's Star that for the first half of this year the city government reported $1,070,613 in construction permits—a definite declaration of good current conditions and strong faith in the future.

Expansion of the poultry business is probably the most important factor locally. It's been a long time coming, but it's here and prospering. When I came here in 1929 Hempstead county had an annual production of 32,000 bales of cotton, but doomed to a short future. Back then we were talking about replacing cotton with a "Cow, Sow, and Hen" program. Roy Anderson pushed that program religiously, and I recall one downtown rally when 30 pedigreed bulls were auctioned off to build up local herds.

That was the forerunner for modern Hope. We hit big on two of them—poultry and livestock. It's seldom you hear the cry "hard times" among people with that kind of faith and perseverance.

There's trouble in some parts of the country, of course, as on the West Coast where the war-plane program has been sharply reduced. But this is inevitable as you wind down a war—unemployment among cut-off war plant workers and an increased labor pool as the GIs are mustered out.

But America has been through this before and will whip whatever problems that lie just ahead. The basic trouble is not with America but with thoughtless people. Folks going off to war plants know from the start that it's only temporary work. Many save their high wages so they will have something to fall back on when the war ends; others squander wages—to them hard times, when they come, are very real.

Ever since the Arkansas Press Association Summer convention in Fayetteville last week-end I keep remembering a witty line from one of the toastmasters.

The man was Tommy Gillespie of the weekly Atkins (Ark.) Chronicle, presiding over the Saturday morning awards breakfast. Mr. Gillespie runs a column and frequently his subscribers take pot shots at him, so he knows all the techniques of defense.

According to Tommy, unfriendly souls sometimes speculate out loud on why he is a bachelor.

"But I," Tommy told the convention, "don't think of myself as just an old bachelor—I think of myself as a Left Over Lover."

Governors to Play Tennis

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers will face Oklahoma's Gov. David Hall in a doubles tennis match Sunday at the Little Rock Racquet Club here.

The match will be open to the public at no charge. Gametime is set for 3 p.m.

Bumpers and Jay Freeman of Little Rock, a noted and able player, will be teamed against Hall and Charley McWilliams of Oklahoma City.

Grant for Sewer Facilities

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Housing and Urban Development announced here Thursday that an $83,000 grant had been approved for West Fork (Washington County) to help finance a new sanitary sewer project.

HUD also announced approval of a $40,000 public facility loan to West Fork for an expansion to its water distribution system.

Congress to Hold Secret Policy Probe

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon-papers dispute has spurred plans for what the House government information subcommittee chairman calls "a major congressional investigation" of U.S. document-secrecy policies.

Material involved in the argument over The New York Times' publication of a secret governmental study of U.S. involvement in Vietnam will be sought from the Nixon administration for private scrutiny to determine why it was classified, the panel's leader said Thursday.

Subcommittee Chairman William S. Moorhead, D-Pa., telling reporters he hopes for administration testimony "in totally open hearings," said if necessary the congressmen could use a long-standing law to obtain the material.

That law, he added, requires every executive department to turn over such information at the request of seven members of the House Government Operations Subcommittee. The information subcommittee is part of that panel, and has several safes in which it stores the classified documents it receives.

Moorhead said experts in constitutional law, legislators and news representatives will be called, along with White House officials and high-ranking witnesses from the Defense, Justice and State departments during open hearings scheduled to start next Wednesday.

Rep. Ogden R. Reid of New York, ranking Republican on the subcommittee and a former executive of the old New York Herald Tribune, said there is a "wide difference between national security and national embarrassment" and much material in the Times case apparently "relates to history, not to what could be called a security question."

$222,512 Grant to Garland

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Office of Economic Opportunity announced Thursday approval of a $222,512 grant to serve programs in Hot Springs and Garland County for 12 months.

The money will be used to fund program administration, neighborhood services, job development and placement, housing services, family planning, general services, and senior opportunities and services.

Here Are Some of the Many Things That We Could Do Well Without

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Things we could do without: "His" and "her" chair recliners.

Scare articles on the population explosion.

Gem-studded identity tags for pampered pet dogs.

New ways to lose weight "as if by magic" or to keep trim and "fit as a tiger" by exercising only 3½ minutes every day.

Any form of auto racing.

Any new kind of amusement for people under 40. They are already in danger of being amused to death or exhaustion.

People who are more stirred to indignation by cruelty to animals than by cruelty to children.

Any more night talk shows on television during which famous guests show bad taste by examining their moral freckles on camera.

Any more taxes on anything. Martinis with a ratio of more than 5 to 1.

All marriages performed in weird places or while the participants are doing unusual things—such as skin diving, touring a gold mine, or water skiing.

Big game hunters who shoot wild buffalo, lions and elephants.

Hope's Downtown Area No Clues on Whereabouts of Tipster

How will the proposed Urban Renewal project affect downtown Hope?

If the project is approved, Second St. from Elm St. to Walnut St. will be converted into a pedestrian shopping mall with no automobile traffic allowed. Main St. from Third St. to Front St. will be made into a semi-mall with a serpentine-type street and protective off-street parking.

Four parking lots will also be constructed in the downtown area. The first parking lot will be located at the corner of Third and Elm St. It will extend from the alley behind Cox's Drug Store and Bud Collier's south to Third St., east to the alley next to the Chamber of Commerce, then north to the alley in back of Owen's Department Store.

A second lot will be at the corner of Elm and Front Sts. It will run from the alley next to Vic Cobb's to the corner of Front St., then east to 88 feet from the corner of Main St.

The corner of Front and Walnut Sts. will be the site of Man Charged in Fatal Stabbing

Earl Lard Jr., 22, a Negro resident of 316 East Greenwood St., has been charged with second degree murder in connection with the fatal stabbing Wednesday night of Robert Howard, 19, also a Negro.

Howard's body was found in a ditch on Dairy Street early Thursday. He had been stabbed in the back with a knife.

Lard is being held in Hempstead County jail.

The charge followed an investigation by City, County and State officers, said Sheriff Henry Snyard.

River Museum in Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — John F. Trotter, owner of the stern-wheeler Border Star, announced Thursday that he plans to open a river museum in Little Rock.

Trotter said the museum would deal exclusively with Arkansas rivers, and that the displays would blend the past, present and future.

The museum will have displays on steamboating in Arkansas, the history of the state's rivers, navigation aids and a 20-foot-long replica of the Arkansas River.

Hot, Humid Conditions in States

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Hot and humid weather conditions that have prevailed around the state for the past few days will continue through the weekend. A slight chance of thundershowers also is forecast.

Afternoon highs Thursday ranged from 90 degrees at Harrison to 101 at Texarkana. The Texarkana reading was the hottest recorded this year with the only previous high to reach into three figures being 100 degrees at Pine Bluff on June 13.

Thundershower activity Thursday was limited mainly to the southeastern portion of the state.

Evening temperatures have remained relatively cool in northern Arkansas with readings in the 60s, but in the south, summer weather was much in evidence with Texarkana reporting 80 degrees at 4 a.m. today.

Overnight lows include Fayetteville 63, Harrison 67, Jonesboro 63, Pine Bluff 75, Memphis 72, Little Rock 70, Fort Smith 69, Texarkana 76, and El Dorado 73.

Rainfall reports for the 24-hour period ended at 7 a.m. include .07 of an inch at Pine Bluff.

Pryor For War Deadline

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. David Pryor, D-Ark., was the only Arkansas congressman voting for a measure Thursday to urge a Dec. 31 deadline for the war in Southeast Asia. The House defeated the proposal on a vote of 254-158.

Voting against the measure were Reps. Wilbur D. Mills and Bill Alexander, both D-Ark., and John Paul Hammer-schmidt, R-Ark.

From these and other do-withouts, deliver us, Amen.

another of the lots. This parking area will extend from the alley behind the former Jack's News Stand east to the corner of Walnut St., then north to the alley behind Barry's Grocery.

The fourth lot will occupy the half-block at the corner of Walnut and Third Sts., except for the Hope Star Building, and will run to the alley behind Crescent Drug.

The Urban Renewal Project in the city of Hope will cost a total of $3,065,185 of which $2,398,000 will be provided by a grant of the federal government. The city's non-cash local grants and aid total $715,800. The work done on Sixth St. has fulfilled $210,000 of the city's obligation.

The Urban Renewal project in Hope is now in Part One, which consists of planning. Hope's Urban Renewal plan is now under review in Little Rock. Phase One should be completed by July.

A public hearing on the project will be held July 8 at 2:30 p.m. in the Douglas Building.

U.S. Airmen Clash With the Enemy

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — U.S. air cavalrymen clashed with North Vietnamese troops 43 miles east of Saigon today, while nine miles southeast of the capital South Vietnamese militiamen uncovered a stockpile of enemy munitions.

Details of the American action east of Saigon were not known, but the AirCav troops in that jungle area have been under fire all week.

On Monday the North Vietnamese ambushed a column, killing four U.S. troops and wounding eight. Another air cavalryman was killed and six were wounded Thursday when their unit came on an enemy bunker complex and the North Vietnamese opened fire. Later more Americans were wounded by a 10-round mortar barrage.

Helicopter gunships swooped down on the bunkers, firing rockets, and seven North Vietnamese were reported killed.

The munitions cache was found during sweep operations around Saigon to minimize chances of an attack during the armed forces day parade Saturday. In the stockpile were 15 Soviet rifles, 20 hand grenades, 20 blasting caps and 1,500 rounds of small arms ammunition.

In the northern part of the country just below the demilitarized zone, the North Vietnamese followed up their heavy attack Thursday near Firebase Sarge with an 81-round barrage of rockets and mortars fired into the artillery base. The South Vietnamese Command said casualties were light.

U.S. B52 bombers made more heavy strikes in the region, dropping 60 tons of bombs on bunker complexes and storage sites. Some of the raids were less than two miles from the base.

Sarge, a former U.S. Marine outpost, is one of the two westernmost South Vietnamese bases in the region just below the DMZ. About 400 North Vietnamese attacked about half that number of South Vietnamese outside the base early Thursday but were finally driven back after Americans jets and helicopters and ground reinforcements joined in the battle.

In a revised casualty report, South Vietnamese headquarters claimed 17 of the North Vietnamese were killed in the battle. Informal sources said 13 South Vietnamese were killed and 15 were wounded.

State Police Director Is Named

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — William C. Miller, who has been acting director of the State Police since the resignation of Ralph D. Scott May 1, was named Wednesday as director of the agency.

Miller, who joined the State Police in 1949 as a radio operator, was also promoted from lieutenant colonel to colonel.

Under the state governmental reorganization, Miller will head the State Police and the enforcement division of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board. Harold Brueggeman, director of the state Department of Public Safety, will be Miller's immediate superior.

Brueggeman said during a news conference that Miller's appointment had the full approval of Gov. Dale Bumpers. Brueggeman, who assumed his position June 1, said he had conferred with Scott and "several others" about the appointment of Miller.

Brueggeman said that because of Miller's background and knowledge of Arkansas police affairs, Miller was the "best man" for the job.

When asked if morale within the department had declined since Scott's resignation, Miller said, "I don't recognize a morale problem."

On another topic at Wednesday's news conference, Brueggeman said that a recent audit of the State Police showed "no irregularities."

"We stand ready for another audit," he said.

State Sen. Virgil Fletcher of Benton said Tuesday that he had received reports of financial irregularities within the department and wanted a thorough audit done.

Shortage of Asphalt in State

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gas and oil shortages to the state's three asphalt producers has created a shortage of asphalt in Arkansas.

The state's three suppliers of paving asphalt, Lion Oil Co. of El Dorado, Berry Petroleum Co. of Magnolia and Macmillan Ring-Free Oil Co. of Norphlet, said they would continue to supply big users, such as private road building contractors and the state, but could not supply municipalities without contracts.

Bryce Crider, president of Berry, said his firm could not possibly meet the demand for asphalt this summer. He said Berry could sell three times the amount of asphalt it could produce.

Chester Eberly, head of asphalt sales for Macmillan, said the shortage would be in effect for two years, but probably would not get any worse during that time.

Eberly said Arkansas oil wells were getting old and could not meet supply demands. He said, however, Macmillan had not had to turn to out-of-state oil purchases yet.

Meanwhile, seasonally paving projects undertaken by many cities during the summer weather are being curtailed.

North Little Rock ran out of asphalt Monday and Mayor W. F. Laman said his city's asphalt crew probably would have to be laid off.

Miss Pine Bluff Is Named

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — Susan Claire Tichoner, 20, a senior at Henderson State College, was named Miss Pine Bluff Thursday night.

Miss Tichoner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carter Quinn of Pine Bluff, had been first runner-up in the pageant for the past two years.

Lois Searles, 21, a student at Arkansas AM&N College at Pine Bluff, was named first runner-up Thursday night.

Airlift Can't Keep Up With Refugees

By DENNIS NEELD
Associated Press Writer
AGARTALA, India (AP) — Pakistani troops in the past week have driven more refugees into India's Tripura state than the American airlift will take out in a month, Indian officials reported today.

As refugees filed into big U.S. Air Force C130s at Agartala airport, Indian officials claimed President Yahya Khan's regime had stepped up its campaign of terror against the people of East Pakistan.

The airlift is taking thousands of refugees out of Tripura to new camps in the neighboring state of Assam.

The border is less than half a mile from the end of the Agartala runway. The four-engine American transports bank steeply on take off to avoid flying over the frontier.

According to officials dealing with the refugee influx, 40,000 more have crossed the border into Tripura in recent days. That is 10,000 more than the U.S. airlift is expected to haul out in a month.

The planes also bring in sacks of rice for the refugee camps.

Many refugees told stories of atrocities and of losing relatives in the Pakistani army's crackdown on the revolutionary movement in East Pakistan.

Tripura's population of 1.5 million has swollen to more than 2.4 million by the refugees, according to Indian officials.

Ike Feared Victory of Ho Chi Minh

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Post says the Eisenhower administration tried to keep the 1954 Geneva Conference from calling elections throughout Vietnam—North and South.

The Post story, appearing in Friday editions and said to be based on a Pentagon study of the origins of the Vietnam war, said the Eisenhower White House feared nationwide elections in Vietnam would result in victory for Ho Chi Minh.

However, the Post said, the documents indicate South Vietnamese President Ngo Dinh Diem was the one who headed off the elections. He flatly refused to discuss elections with the Communist government in Hanoi.

There was no indication in the Post story, written by staff writer Chalmers M. Roberts, if the Pentagon study was the same used as the basis of New York Times articles on the war. The Times is under a temporary court order prohibiting further publication of the seies.

The Post said President Dwight D. Eisenhower's secretary of state, John Foster Dulles, was the prime mover in administration opposition to national Vietnamese elections.

The Post quoted from a July 1954 telegram reportedly sent by Dulles to various American diplomats, as illustration of his attitude:

"... Thus since undoubtedly true that elections might eventually mean unification Vietnam under Ho Chi Minh this makes it all more important they should be only held as long after cease-fire agreement as possible and in conditions free from intimidation to give democratic elections best chance."

"We believe important that no date should be set now and especially that no conditions should be accepted by French which would have direct or indirect effect of preventing effective international supervision of agreement ensuring political as well as military guarantees."

Dulles, according to the Post, urged France not to agree to the elections.

Nevertheless, the Geneva Conference called for elections to be held in July 1956, a decision the Post said made Dulles very unhappy.

The paper quoted a telegram the secretary was said to have sent to French Premier Pierre Mendes-France as saying he was worried about "a whittling-away process" that could culminate in a serious weakening of the South Vietnamese position.

New Pastor at Calvary Baptist Church

Calvary Baptist Church, 1201 West Avenue B, welcomed its new pastor in services last Sunday. He is Rev. Vernon C. Wickliffe, who for the past 19 years, has been serving in Southern Baptist pioneer mission work in California and Michigan. He was educated at Ouachita Baptist University and Golden Gate Baptist Seminary Mill Valley, California.

For the last seven and one half years Mr. Wickliffe has served as Superintendent of Metropolitan Missions in the northern suburban area of Greater Detroit. He was employed jointly by the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention and the Baptist State Convention of Michigan. Before that he was pastor of the Central Baptist Church, Flint, Michigan.

Rev. Wickliffe with his wife, Fern, daughter Alice and son, Verne are living in the home just completed by the church on Hammond Street. Alice will enter Southern State College this fall and Verne will be a junior at Hope High School.

Libel Suit Settled Out of Court

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — John H. Jones, a Pine Bluff lawyer and banker, said Thursday a $500,000 libel suit filed by him against the Pine Bluff Commercial has been settled out of court for $50,000.

Jones had sought $500,000 in compensatory damages and $100,000 in punitive damages over the Commercial's coverage in a Chancery Court proceeding.

Jones alleged that the three articles were "false and malicious and were not true or fair reports."

Jones listed incidents of alleged omissions, distortions and misstatements in the reports of the hearings in Chancery Court on a petition filed by Jones, who was instrumental in organization of the Pine Bluff National Bank, and three other stockholders seeking an order to allow them to inspect the bank's financial records.

During the trial in Jefferson Circuit Court, the judge instructed the jury that malice was a prerequisite for recovery of damages. Jones appealed to the state Supreme Court, which reversed the lower court judgment.

The high court ruled that malice did not apply to judicial proceedings.

"Court records are available and insofar as reports of in-progress proceedings are concerned, the threat of a libel prosecution emanates only from incompetent reporting," the Supreme Court said.

TIM WHITE

The National Association of Student Councils Conference will be held at Burlington, Vermont, High School June 20-24, and delegates from Hope High are Tommy Frazier, President of the 1971-72 HHS Student Body; Tim White, senior representative; and Sandra McFarland, HHS Student Council secretary. They will be accompanied by Mrs. W.A. Williams, adviser.

The state of Arkansas is allowed only 12 delegates, and Hope will have 3 of those 12. Tommy will lead a discussion group, "How Can the Student Council Serve the Community?"; Tim will be Hope's voting delegate; Sandra will lead a Swap Shop meeting; and Mrs. Williams will serve as the Resource person for the discussion group and Swap Shop.

From Thursday, June 24 through Sunday, June 27 the group will be touring New York City.

Support for Disclosures of Times

By KENNETH J. FREED
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The New York Times has picked up some surprising support in Congress in its fight with the Nixon administration over publication of a secret Pentagon study of American involvement in the Vietnam war.

The government's effort to stop the paper from continuing its series about the highly classified documents brought on criticism from liberals—senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, among others.

But an element of surprise was entered by Carl B. Curtis, a Nebraska Republican who has been one of President Nixon's staunch Senate backers, particularly on Vietnam and other national security matters.

"The freedom of the press to publish information about the government of the nation, and the decisions of this government, is one of our most precious freedoms," he said Thursday.

Curtis didn't make a direct attack on the administration effort to obtain a court order against continuation of the Times series, but he said there is a "very serious fault" in the government's approach to classifying documents.

"Judging by what I have read and heard about these Vietnam war documents," Curtis told the Senate, "the government tends to stamp a 'secret' or 'top secret' classification on too many documents and too much information in an attempt to hide it from the public."

The documents in the study were classified either secret or top secret when they were assembled under direction of Secretary of Defense Robert S.

Obituaries

FAIRHOPE, Ala. (AP) — Alexis C. Fern, 101, a pioneer in education, died Wednesday. Starting out with various newspaper jobs, Fern and his wife, Elizabeth, later spent 40 years founding free schools across the country.

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Paul-Jordan-Smith, 86, former book editor of the Los Angeles Times, died Thursday. An authority on 17th Century authors, Jordan-Smith wrote, translated or edited 10 books. He was with the Times 24 years.

NEW YORK (AP) — James L. Ferguson, 70, board president of the Sawyer Ferguson Walker Co., representing 36 newspapers around the nation, died Thursday. Ferguson helped found the firm in 1929, became president in 1933 and chairman and chief executive officer in 1966.

McNamara during the Johnson administration.

The Nixon administration sought a permanent injunction against further disclosure by the Times on grounds it would compromise national security. A federal judge barred the rest of the series.

In the House, 22 members announced they would seek to intervene in the federal court proceedings to obtain resumption of the Times series on grounds Congress is being denied essential material on the war.

Altogether, 62 House members have asked the White House to release all of the Pentagon study. All but four are Democrats.

Also standing by the Times was Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., normally a Nixon war-policy supporter but also a zealous advocate of freedom of the press.

Nixon Has Cavalcade in Rochester

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — President Nixon, who isn't answering public questions about politics this year, headed here today for his first high-noon urban motorcade in the North since the 1970 campaign.

Well in advance of Nixon's flight with wife Pat to Rochester's Monroe County Airport, the White House asked if a campaign-style cavalcade through downtown streets was planned.

Gerald L. Warren, Nixon's deputy press secretary, said the chief executive simply would drive from the airport to a hotel. Of course, Warren added, any spontaneous outpouring along the motorcade route would not meet with White House disfavor.

That seemed to be Warren's shorthand way of saying the lunch-hour timing of Nixon's arrival and the advance presence here of men skilled in arranging campaign travels were not entirely accidental.

Officially, Nixon chose to visit Rochester to talk to newspaper and broadcast executives from 12 states and the District of Columbia, then visit briefly with a citizens' group lobbying for revenue sharing—a key and embattled administration congressional goal.

Antiwar groups announced they would attempt to get their share of seats in the Rochester Flagship Hotel, site of the Nixon meeting. The protest groups predicted 5,000 demonstrators; authorities said more than 800 policemen would be on hand.

Nixon had been due here last winter to promote revenue sharing and other major domestic proposals but heavy snow forced postponement.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — As things worked out, Thursday was hands-across-the-sea day, live, on television, and a busy time for the communications satellites.

It started early on NBC's "Today Show" as Secretary of State William P. Rogers in Washington and his opposite number in Tokyo signed copies of the agreement which, after 27 years, will return Okinawa to Japan.

In the early afternoon, from the United Nations General Assembly hall, Danny Kaye acted as piper and host of a program celebrating the 25th anniversary of the United Nations Children's Emergency Fund. This focused on groups of children all over the world. The taped program was repeated on the educational stations in the early evening.

Viewed against the background of commercial television's frequent use of the satellite for everything from space splashdowns to funeral services of foreign dignitaries, neither effort was a particularly novel electronic feat. But the stunt of bringing together by television the two signatories who were actually separated by thousands of miles was interesting and gave the viewer a feeling he was occupying a ringside seat on history in the making.

"Children of the World" was not Danny Kaye's happiest hour. The comedian has been the unofficial ambassador of UNICEF for almost 15 years—his first tour for the organization was the basis of a moving television report in 1957. When he is able to move informally among children, the Kaye charm and innocent clowning transcends language barriers. This time, alas, Kaye was forced to operate alone on the floor of the hall, separated from a large audience of seated children. Distance seemed to hamper Kaye and dampen the enthusiasm of the young ones.

The idea was to unite children all over the world through the medium. The United Nations audience of children and the viewers at home saw orphaned students of Spain's "City of Boys" put on some circus acts. From Rio de Janeiro came a practice soccer session. Most interesting, perhaps, were young dancers working out at the National Ballet School in Toronto, Canada, and the students of the youth experimental opera workshop in Atlanta, Ga., in an excerpt from a work they had written, produced and enacted.

No program loaded with attractive, talented children can fail to appeal and no program so well-intentioned could fail to

PHILIP BARTON

MAGNOLIA — Philip Barton of Hope has been awarded an academic scholarship to Southern State College for the 1971-72 school year, according to Bernard H. Polk, director of student aids.

The $300 scholarship, which is one of a number awarded by Southern State to outstanding Arkansas high school graduates, is renewable for four years provided the student maintains a 3.00 or better grade-point average while carrying at least 15 semester hours, Polk said.

Barton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Barton of 104 Whitehall in Hope and a 1971 graduate of Hope High School. He plans to study finance while at Southern State.

Mirror, Mirror on the Wall . . .

By AILEEN SNODDY

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Cleopatra has been blamed for many successes and failures. One of her successes is the ego use of what we now call a "mirror."

The temptress of the Nile, according to legend, had servants polish a piece of bronze to a high luster, the better to see her beauty.

Mirrors today have more than looking-glass uses in the home. Many help solve home decorating problems.

For example, a basic is to use a mirror to reflect the most light and make a small room appear larger.

Here are some valid tips on uses of mirrors in the home:

- A small room appears double in size by mirroring an entire wall.

- Give the illusion of pushing walls outward by mirroring the sides.

- In low-ceiling rooms, mirrors flush with the ceiling give illusion of space.

- Use framed mirrors to match room accessories. Match a large mirror with a large sofa. Use a smaller mirror over an end table.

- Put a mirror where it will reflect the most attractive scene and the most light. For example, try to duplicate an outdoor scene. In the kitchen, mirror the splashboard area behind stove and sink for extra light.

- If space is at a premium in a dining room, place a mirrored wall of tinted glass. It doubles the space and should give the room a quiet and relaxed feeling.

YOUTH ASKED FOR IT!

This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help Us!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush-off.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED for it, care of Helen Help Us! this newspaper.

IS LEG-APPRECIATION "MALE BACKLASH"?

Dear Helen:

Your column of male backlash against women—yes, that's what it was!—needs rebuttal. First: The letter from "Wally" whose wife wears pants suits constantly and he wonders "if he married a woman." If he doesn't know by now, he can't have much of a marriage.

In wanting his wife to go around showing her "great legs," he exhibits his emotional infantilism and lack of interest in her as a person. Why doesn't he bare his hairy chest (if he has one)? He's undoubtedly the type of creep who ogles every secretary and thinks the playboy bunny trip is really exciting. His wife's legs must be some kind of status symbol to him.

(NOTE FROM HELEN: Maybe he just enjoys looking at them. Pants suits are great but, really, I can't see that occasional leg exposure detracts from a wife's status as a person.)

Second: The male women's page editor! This type has been giving women lousy male advice for years, outlining what's "ladylike" and what isn't.

By offering three booklets (on Women's Liberation, washing machine hints and weight reduction) then comparing the response, he attempts to prove that women have no interest in their liberation and rights.

Of course, the little hausfrau in HIS club-and-wedding audience wouldn't send for the first offering. She's the cardboard, stereotype, helpless female idiot locked in her kitchen and starving for his "advice" on how to wash clothes or look like a man-trap.

Women are real, honest-to-goodness people, not automatons who can be programmed into pulling up their hemlines so some male can lick his lips, or into sending for pamphlets that don't tell them anything relevant to the real issues of their lives.

Women come in all varieties and shades of awareness and opinions. Let's stop putting them all together in "bags" and saying "women do this" or "women don't like men" or "women love to cook" or "women are all on

It's all done with mirrors, which may be used on walls or ceiling to give the illusion of more space. A small dining room (top) "grows" with a mirror on one wall. At bottom, mirrors are mounted on closet doors in a child's room, providing an instant friend on rainy days.

Reagan Likes Being a Farmer

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan says he will continue to be a cattle owner as long as he can afford to—not as a tax shelter but because "I like being a farmer."

Reagan, who did not owe any state personal income taxes in California last year, denied that his cattle investments were made as a tax shelter.

The Sacramento Bee and New York Times reported Sunday that Reagan is a client of Oppenheimer Industries, Inc., a cattle management firm that offers its services to those "in a position to benefit from the tax incentives."

Reagan, interviewed by newsmen Wednesday after returning from a New England speaking trip, said he has been in the cattle business for 20 years. "Well, I still own some cattle," the Republican chief executive said, his voice tinged with impatience. "As long as I can afford to I'm going to con-best of two worlds, if we can be smart—and energetic enough—to juggle them." —H.

tinue. I like being a farmer."

The Sunday article was the first specific report on Reagan's investments, which became a source of controversy after he acknowledged that he had no state tax liability for 1970 because of "business reverses." He added that since becoming governor he had paid $90,000 in state taxes.

Reagan said Wednesday, "I intend to go back to ranching and I don't want to lose out completely. I have invested in land to have a ranch when I finish this job."

The Bee reported that Oppenheimer had purchased cattle for the Reagan Cattle Co. in Montana, and had registered brands for the Reagan Cattle Co. in Wyoming and Nevada although the Nevada brand had not been reregistered for 1971.

SIR ALEC IN CAMEO
NEW YORK (AP) — Sir Alec Guinness will make a rare cameo appearance portraying Pope Innocent III in Franco Zeffirelli's "Brother Sun, Sister Moon," for Paramount Pictures. In the film story of St. Francis of Assisi, whose life paralleled today's youth, Sir Alec will act in one scene. His appearance will mark one of the most dramatic confrontations of the film — the meeting between Francis and the Pope.

No Strike as Training Begins

By PAT THOMPSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — There won't be a rerun of the 1970 National Football League training camp strike when the players start reporting for the first practices next month.

Owners and players finally patched up their differences that started with last year's training camp boycott-lockout, led to a contract settlement misunderstanding and finally reached a peak when a charge of unfair labor practices was hurled into the dispute.

"We're going to play ball," said Leonard Lindquist, NFL Players Association (NFLPA) attorney. "There were clarifications of position accepted by both sides."

Representatives of club owners and the NFLPA met in a marathon session in Minneapolis that started Wednesday night and did not break up until Thursday afternoon.

When it was over, it was announced jointly that a final agreement had been reached on a four-year "collective bargaining agreement."

"It wasn't a cloak and dagger session," said a spokesman for the club owners. "It was a straight work session."

Clarification was necessary on a wordage dispute that arose after a Feb. 28 meeting, when the players stamped agreement on the contract that ended the strike in August 1970 but had not yet been signed.

The pension issue was the biggest concern of the players when they refused to report for training.

But the NFLPA filed a charge of unfair labor practices with the National Labor Relations Board April 2, saying the owners had changed some wordage after the February meeting.

SCU Wins Baseball Title

By DAN EVEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Time-hitting has given Southern California its seventh College World Series baseball title.

"They got hits with men on base, we didn't, it's that simple," said Southern Illinois Coach Richard "Itchy" Jones after his team was beaten 7-2 by the top-ranked Trojans Thursday night.

For the Rod Dedeaux-coached Trojans it was their third College World Series championship in the last four years, and marked only the second time in the 25 years of the tournament that a team has won consecutive titles. Texas did it in 1949-50.

"It was tougher than the score indicated," said Dedeaux, whose team for the second straight year came back through the losers bracket to the title.

Junior All-America Steve Busby muffled the hard-hitting Southern Illinois attack by allowing just eight scattered singles.

The game was one of redemption for the right-hander, too. He was knocked out by Southern Illinois Sunday in the second round as Southern Cal lost 8-3.

Southern Illinois, which lost to USC in the title game 4-3 in 1968, clipped Busby for a 1-0 lead in the second inning, but then was held scoreless until the ninth as USC went on top 7-1.

Minnesota 7-6 Over Chicago

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Minnesota Twins won a baseball game, by George. It wasn't easy. They spotted Chicago two leads and George Mitterwald doubled their pleasure with two saving hits.

"I've just been swinging good," said Mitterwald after an early game-tying home run and a late winning single as the Twins topped the Chicago White Sox 7-6 in 11 wild innings Thursday night.

Mitterwald's run-scoring hit in the 11th, his fourth safety of the game, capped a four-run burst that rubbed out Chicago's three-run rally in its half of the frame.

Joe Horlen, the third White Sox pitcher of the inning who unsuccessfully tried to halt the Twins tide, sure enough didn't let Mitterwald hit to left.

He hit to right-center instead, some 400 feet away, and sent home the winning run.

In Thursday night's other American League games, the Detroit Tigers beat the Cleveland Indians 4-3; the Baltimore Orioles trimmed the New York Yankees 3-1 and the Kansas City Royals thumped the California Angels 5-0.

Only two games were played in the National League. The Chicago Cubs covered the St. Louis Cardinals 7-6 in 10 innings and the Cincinnati Reds stopped the Atlanta Braves 5-1.

Mitterwald had missed four games with a pulled muscle in his left leg, but the pain didn't curb his desire to play, according to Twins Manager Bill Rigney.

Tony Oliva's two-run single with the bases loaded scored Minnesota's first two runs and Rich Reese chased home another with a sacrifice fly to tie the contest. Then Mitterwald, who homered in the sixth to create a 3-3 tie, ripped "the longest single of my career" to send in Oliva.

Pinch-hitter Mike Andrews had delivered a two-out tie-breaking double in the top of the 11th to spark the three-run up-rising and give the White Sox a short-lived 6-3 lead.

Bill Freehan hit two doubles and winning pitcher Les Cain drove in a run for Detroit as the Tigers snapped a six-game winning streak for Cleveland ace Sam McDowell.

Cain's fifth-inning single gave the Tigers their first of two runs in that inning and a triple by Norm Cash and Freehan's double knocked in the fourth and decisive run in the eighth. McDowell, who lost his sixth in 13 decisions, was tagged for nine hits in six innings.

Ellie Hendricks hit a two-run homer in the sixth inning to pull Baltimore's East Division Leaders over New York. The blow cleared the center field fence after bouncing off leaping Bobby Murcer's glove. Pat Dobson pitched a five-hitter for the Orioles.

The Kansas City Royals scored three runs in the first inning on four hits to back Dick Drago's six-hitter. Drago, who shut out Boston in his last assignment, became the first Royal to ever pitch consecutive shutouts.

Cookie Rojas, Kansas City's veteran second baseman, collected the 1,000th hit of his major league career with a seventh-inning single off reliever Mel Queen.

Don Kessinger, who doubled in the eighth inning and scored the tying run, opened the 10th with his sixth hit and came in with the winning run on Ron Santo's single for the Cubs.

Jim McGlothlin scattered seven hits to complete his first game of the season and Lee May knocked in three runs for Cincinnati. McGlothlin, after giving up a run in the first, retired 15 Braves in a row before Ralph Garr's two-out single in the sixth.

Wadkin Has Confidence to Win Open

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

ARDMORE, Pa. (AP) — If brashness and confidence help, Jerry Lanston "Lanny" Wadkins, Jr., could be the first amateur since Johnny Goodman in 1933 to win the U.S. Open Golf championship. "Why not?" the sandy-haired Wake Forest University junior from Richmond, Va., responded when asked whether he thought such a feat was now possible. "On a given day, I think I can play with any of them."

Lanny doesn't just say it—he does it. He shot a 68 Thursday.

Going into today's second round of the 71st open at the Merion Club he is one of seven players under Merion's 70 par, one stroke off the pace set by Labron Harris with a 67.

In the post-round inquisition that follows after each outstanding score Wadkins was asked if he was surprised at his excellent score.

"No, sir," Lanny answered, not batting a green-gray eye. "I wasn't surprised. I've been playing well. I had two 65s in practice."

Another questioner reminded the 21-year-old collegian that he had an unorthodox grip with his right hand pulled more over the club than most players.

"Ben Hogan grips the club that way, and he's done all right," Wadkins responded.

Somebody else, pressing the issue, wanted to know if he felt that pros had a big advantage over the amateurs in the Open.

"Sure, they are guaranteed $500," he said. "That would pay my expenses."

Jennings Says AAU Outmolded

By DAN BERGER
Associated Press Sports Writer

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — A longtime foe of the Amateur Athletic Union says the AAU won't have control over American track and field athletes much longer.

Tom Jennings, president and coach of the Pacific Coast Club, says the AAU is outmolded, filled with red tape and old men.

"I've been fighting them on their own ground for a long time and winning but I'm tired of being shoved around," Jennings says. "Track and field is not the domain of the AAU; it's the domain of the athletes who don't earn a cent."

Jennings is a member of the executive committee for track and field of the United States Track and Field Federation, an organization founded by the NCAA. The AAU and NCAA have been at odds for years over control of amateur track and field.

"The USTFF is made up of men interested in track rather than men trying to promote trips overseas for themselves," Jennings says. "By 1973, the AAU is going to find it's in trouble. The USTFF is gaining stature."

The AAU is the international spokesman for American track and field. Athletes wishing to compete against other countries must get AAU travel permits. Records set by athletes must get AAU approval before they can be certified as official by the International Amateur Athletic Federation.

Colt Will Recover From Fall

NEW YORK (AP) — Hoist the Flag, once regarded as the colt that would become racing's ninth Triple Crown winner, is on the threshold of his greatest victory, according to a veterinarian—recovery from a severely broken leg that ended his career.

Dr. Mark Gerard said Thursday that X rays were taken of broken cannon and long pastern bones in the colt's right hind leg and "it's almost unbelievable the way this colt has healed. He is 90 per cent healed in the region of the cannon bone and I'd say 80-85 per cent in the long pastern. Like a miracle!"

Hoist the Flag, who finished first in all six of his starts but was disqualified once, broke down while pulling up following a workout March 31 for the Bay Shore Stakes at Aqueduct.

An operation was performed in which the shattered pastern was rebuilt and, although it was pronounced a success, it still was not known if Hoist the Flag, owned by Mrs. Stephen C. Clark, could be saved.

In fact, just about two weeks ago the company which insured the 1970 2-year-old champion gave permission to destroy him if he could not be saved for stud.

But on Thursday, Gerard said: "It is only a matter of time now until we can remove the cast (the second one) and permit the colt to take his first walk."

Pontiac Grand Prix Saturday

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

A Grand Prix brings out such as Mario Andretti, Jackie Stewart and other world-class drivers. But the Pontiac Grand Prix has drawn Jim French, Vegas Vic and nine other 3-year-olds thoroughbreds.

The horse race that sounds like an auto race will be held Saturday at Arlington Park and will be one of three $100,000-added races on a busy weekend that also will feature Deceit's bid for the filly Triple Crown and the 12th renewal of Canada's Queen's Plate, the oldest continuously run horse race in North America.

The field was entered Thursday for the one-mile Pontiac Grand Prix, with Frank J. Caldwell's much-traveled Jim French and Annette Mann's Fast Fellow co-high-weighted at 120 pounds. Vegas Vic, the Derby Trial Stakes winner, gets 117 as does Staunch Avenger, winner of a Grand Prix prep; Mr. Gemini and Mr. Pow Wow.

Jim French will be starting in his seventh straight $100,000-added race, at six different tracks. The Santa Anita Derby winner was second in the Kentucky Derby, third in the Pre-Kness and second in the Belmont Stakes.

Deceit, owned by E. P. Taylor, is expected to be opposed by seven 3-year-old fillies in the $100,000-added Coaching Club American Oaks over 1 1/2 miles at Belmont Park.

The other $100,000-plus race Saturday will be the Michigan Mile and One-Eighth at Detroit Race Course for which 11 were entered Thursday including Jack Dreyfus's Tunex, winner of the Metropolitan Handicap.

Four other 3-year-old stakes are on the weekend schedule—the $60,000-added Cinema Handicap over 1 1/4 miles on the grass at Hollywood Park and the $50,000-added, 1 1/4-mile Ohio Derby at Thistledown Saturday; the $50,000-added Leonard Richards over 1 1/4 miles on the turf at Delaware Park Sunday and the $25,000-added, one-mile Patriot Stakes at Liberty Bell Saturday.

Mays No. 1 in Outfield Voting

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Mays is No. 1 in the outfield voting for the National League All-Star team.

The San Francisco Giant great has a lead of 3,156 votes over Hank Aaron of Atlanta, according to figures released today by the office of Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Mays has received 284,800 votes to 281,644 for Aaron and 143,121 for Willie Stargell of Pittsburgh, the major league leader in home runs and runs batted in.

Catcher Johnny Bench of Cincinnati continued to lead all vote getters, with 302,053.

The closest race is at shortstop where Bud Harrelson of the New York Mets has 123,777

Retire? Someday, Maybe...

By IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Hoyt Wilhelm, with little enthusiasm, said that it's like being on vacation. It was almost June and Wilhelm was still home in Columbus, Ga., while the Atlanta Braves were on the road in New York, in Montreal, in St. Louis.

"What do you do to occupy your days?" he was asked by telephone.

"What does anybody do?" he replied, sharply.

"I don't know."

"Go fishin'."

"What have you been catching?"

"Not much."

Hoyt Wilhelm, who will be 48 years old in July, also ran some every day to keep his legs and wind in shape. He threw a baseball almost every day, too. He threw to some local high school kids, and he threw to his 13-year-old son, Jimmy. He threw just straight stuff, he said, and not his famed knuckleball, which even major leaguers have trouble catching. (A rookie with the White Sox several years ago disdained a mask when warming up Wilhelm and received a black eye on the first pitch.)

Wilhelm, placed on the disabled list by the Braves before the 1971 season started, threw his knuckleball only in batting practice when the Braves were home.

"I'm all right as far as I'm concerned," he said. "I'm throwin' just about as good as ever."

He had been suffering from "a little shoulder stiffness." It wasn't really a sore arm, he said, because he's never had a sore arm in all of the 26 years he has been pitching (19 of those years have been with eight major league teams).

"My shoulder usually gets stiff that way and needs workin' out in the spring of the year," he said.

Wilhelm says he is ready to return to the Braves as a relief pitcher. Manager Luman Harris also said that Wilhelm is ready to pitch. "But we don't have room for him on the roster right now," said Harris.

This is difficult for Wilhelm to swallow. He led the Braves' staff last season in earned run average, with 3.12. (He bristles at talk concerning the number of times he has been traded. "I led just about every team in ERA the season they traded me," he said.) Wilhelm believes his skills have not diminished. Braves' bullpen coach Ken Silvestri, among others, agrees. "His knuckleball is still knucklin'," Silvestri said.

Wilhelm is the oldest man to play big-league baseball regularly. He holds the record for most games pitched (1,042 before this season), and assorted relief pitching records: most games (990), most victories (124), most saves (223) and most innings pitched (1,825).

Yet the man who won a purple heart in the Battle of the Bulge has a relatively unlined face, though his still-dark hair is thinning above the forehead. "It's how old you feel, how old you act that's important," he said. "Not how old are you."

Bob Didier, the Braves' catcher, who was born seven years after Wilhelm began his career with Mooresville of the Class D North Carolina State League in 1942, went hunting with Wilhelm last winter in southern Georgia.

"We walked for miles and miles," recalls Didier. "I kept saying to myself, 'I can't let this old man out-walk me.'"

Didier says he is in awe of Wilhelm the pitcher, too. "It's catching a legend," he said.

Wilhelm admits, though it seems he hardly believes, that the day will come when he no longer can throw a knuckleball for a living. His Southern, nasal twang becomes crusty at the mention of post-playing days. "I'll cross that bridge when I come to it," he said.

It was mentioned to him that Eddie Mathews, now a Braves' coach, had returned to baseball after a two-year retirement and said that he, like other ballplayers, was unprepared to meet life "on the outside."

"That's Mathews sayin' that. Not me," said Wilhelm. "I won't have problems."

HOYT WILHELM may have a little less hair than he once did, but he seems to have boundless energy. Though he was on the Atlanta Braves' disabled list through the early part of the season, he kept in shape pitching batting practice during Brave home stands.

Porter Case Ruling Is Awaited

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Villanova university awaits a ruling by the National Collegiate Athletic Association on the Howard Porter case that may erase last year's fine basketball season from the record books.

The president of the school said Thursday it will forfeit the basketball record—including a second place finish in the NCAA tournament—if the NCAA rules that the star center had signed a professional contract and made himself ineligible during the season.

It has been alleged that Porter signed a professional contract with the Pittsburgh Corsairs of the American Basketball Association on Dec. 16, 1970, while still a collegian.

According to NCAA bylaws, a

Need Fast Time to Qualify

By CHARLIE BAROUH
Associated Press Sports Writer
SEATTLE (AP) — Athletes find they need surprisingly fast times to stay in contention as qualifying continued today in the NCAA track and field championships.

And not all of them are happy about it.

Marty Liquori, Villanova's super miler, summed up sentiment after qualifying for a shot at this third straight title. He had just edged Greg Carlberg of Nebraska as both finished with times of 4:00.7.

"The qualifying in the meet was faster than the qualifying time I have ever seen in a U.S. meet," the 6-foot, 145-pounder said. "Frankly, I don't like to see the qualifying times run this fast. I don't like it when a guy takes it out that fast and can't finish."

Several of the leading qualifiers Thursday expressed surprise at the pace.

Defending champion Eddie Hart of California, who qualified in the 100-yard dash with a 9.3 time, called it "a do or die race." And Jim Breen of Kentucky said he had hoped to give a leg muscle a chance to heal with an easy race. Instead, he needed a 9.5 effort to get into today's semi-finals.

PULLING AWAY

Richard Petty is roaring away to a tremendous lead in the Winston Cup Grand National auto driver standings. Petty, of Randleman, N.C., is the point leader and had a $50,000 lead in earnings, having won $138,760 in 21 starts this season.

team's record and performance are stricken from the books if it is determined that a man played college ball while under a professional obligation. Also, any awards the team might have won with an ineligible player are to be returned to the NCAA.

In a letter to NCAA executive director Walter Byers, the Rev. Robert J. Walsh, president of Villanova, suggested the athletic group give Porter a chance to clear himself.

Opening lead—♥ Q

By Oswald & James Jacoby

We have often heard that two heads are better than one, but we doubt if this has ever been proven. We do know that two chances are better than one.

South can count eight sure winners. He can look for the ninth in either spades or diamonds. He abandons the idea of setting up the fourth spade because before he can do that the defense will be able to get in two spades, two hearts and their ace of diamonds.

That leaves dummy's fourth diamond as his only hope. He sees that it will surely score for him if East and West each hold exactly three diamonds. How about a 4-2 or 5-1 break?

He can't do anything about that unless the ace is held by the short hand. In that case he will make three diamond tricks if he can keep the ace from capturing one of his honors.

Dummy has two diamond honors so he plans to lead twice toward dummy.

He wins the opening lead in his own hand. He starts right away by leading a low diamond. Dummy's jack holds the trick. He returns to his hand with the king of clubs and leads his other low diamond. This time West has to play the ace. All it captures are a couple of spot cards and South has his three diamond tricks and his contract.

♥ ♣ CARD Sense ♠

The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
1♥		Dble	Redble
Pass	Pass	1NT	?

You, South, hold:
♠ K 7 3 2 ♥ A 2 ♦ K 9 3 ♣ Q J 6 2

What do you do now?

A—Double. You can slaughter one no-trump. Maybe East has no place to go.

TODAY'S QUESTION

West bids two clubs. North and East pass. What do you do now?

YOUTH BEAT

Sunshine Bakes Your Mind

By ERNESTINE GUGLIELMO

GUESS WHO—What famous singer has a Gibson guitar which he and all his fans refer to as "Lucille"? For the first slew of correct answers, we have Youthbeat maze posters, posters of the Rolling Stones, Stephen Stills and scenes from Woodstock and, besides that, lots of the newest rock and country albums. So who plays on Lucille?

THERE GOES THE SUN—On the way to New York's Bitter End, stopped by to enjoy the fading day in Washington Square. A totally strung-out-looking man was attracting a lot of attention. He walked over and although he looked very old, he turned out to be very young.

Sad-eyed, with spittle falling into his beard, barefooted and bruised, he said in an expressionless voice, "I'm scared." When asked what he was on, he replied "Sunshine" (LSD tablet form). If that's sunshine, rain would be a welcome relief.

NEWSY NOTES—Look for Ringo Starr on the screen again in a new movie. He'll costar with Tony Anthony in a flick called "Blindman."

The Moody Blues are getting played in every corner of the world, even in Red China. Thanks to a member of the English table tennis team who purchased a copy of "To Our Children's Children's Children," the ethereal, somewhat revolutionary Moody Blues music was played for the people.

IT'S BEEN SO LONG—Spencer Davis is back on the music scene and he has joined his talent with that of another amazing musician, Peter Jameson. After leaving the Spencer Davis group to "work out some private truths," Spencer's back with a softer, more romantic sound.

Spence and Peter sat in a friend's backyard in the early morning sunshine, wearing only blue jeans, strumming on guitars, drinking coffee and talking. We talked about their recent appearance at Fillmore East and the associations and images that go along with successful rock entertainers. Seeing the two of them removed from the spotlight, things seemed somewhat different, maybe a little more in their proper perspective.

Spence and Peter talked about the latest trends in music and how an audience is sometimes manipulated by them.

They said they'd "rather appeal to an audience that knows its own mind than to victims of the latest hype."

They began to play and sing again. It's a business for them, but a job they like doing and do very well as their album, "It's Been So Long," will prove.

LANGUAGE BARRIER—For all you young folks who are having a bit of trouble communicating with your parents, here's a perfect idea for a Father's Day present. A paperback book, written by Eugene E. Landy, Ph.D., called "The Underground Dictionary," defines the terms and expressions frequently used by today's youth. As the author says, "An understanding of the language will fill the chasm in the communication gap."

At least it might help.

PERSONAL FINANCE

It hardly seemed fair that a wife could land in the soup, along with her husband, for putting her signature on a joint tax return when she didn't know what was in it and especially didn't know that hubby had been trying to save a bit of money by not reporting all his taxable income.

But that's the way it was, until recently. The law held a spouse liable for tax shortages when she signed the return, whether or not she knew a fraud was being perpetrated. A court even told one wife, whose husband had embezzled $100,000, that the tax on this "income"—which he hadn't paid—was her liability.

By FRANK O'NEAL

Women's Lib has n't claimed credit for it so far, but recent legislation, known in tax circles as the "innocent spouse change," lets the innocent wife off the hook, except for small, family-style fudging. If the concealed income is more than 25 per cent of the income reported, she's no longer liable.

So tell your husband that if he's doing any secret income-tax cheating, for heaven's sake, think big.

More good news, if you've been worrying about another common problem. If you're on a hijacked plane, and wind up in Cuba or the Near East with a lump on your head or worse—are you covered by your health insurance?

Yes, most insurance company health policies will pay the bills as usual, the Health Insurance Institute reassuringly reports. Almost all the newer hospital, surgical and major-medical policies, it says, cover you "anywhere on this planet—or in the atmosphere, for that matter."

So just stay out of space-craft—or at least under an altitude of 690 miles, to make sure you're still in the atmosphere—and always carry your identification card with you.

Would you believe one more piece of good news that a "temporary" tax first passed by Congress in 1917 is now scheduled to expire in only 11 more years?

It's the manufacturer's excise tax on automobiles. It started out at 3 per cent in 1917, as a World War I tax

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I'm interested in the use of sauna, whirlpool and sweat room. On recent examinations my blood pressure was 155/95 and I am taking medicine to bring it down. I am 60 and do enjoy walking two or three miles, play 18 holes and walk and then use health studio if I don't walk.

My doctor pointed out if I use the whirlpool over 106 degrees, I could get a negative reaction.

I am also interested in cutting my weight to about 170 or 165. I am 180 and 69 inches tall.

Dear Reader — I do not approve of hot whirlpools, heat rooms, steam rooms or sauna for people who have heart or vascular problems, including high blood pressure. The Federal Trade Commission has also taken a dim view of most of these items because they are dangerous for such patients. Much less do I approve of them for someone taking medicine for high blood pressure. Your doctor is right and you would do well to follow his advice.

I might make one suggestion, besides staying away from the heat treatments, try to lose even more weight. A man 69 inches tall with shoes should not weigh more than 160 pounds with clothes if he has a medium frame. The best guide, of course, is how much fat is under the skin, or that old spare tire. Many people who control their body weight ADEQUATELY do not need medicine to control their blood pressure. I am glad you are remaining active.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I read your article in which you mentioned that ballet dancers sometimes have changes in the ankle joints. I am 16 years old and have been taking ballet lessons for two and a half years. My ankle bones crack when I use them. Could this be osteoarthritis? If not what could it be and how can I stop it?

Dear Reader — All popping and cracking sounds from the joint do not mean arthritis. Just as a whip cracks, the movements of the tendons and other structures around the joints can cause cracking when the joint moves. There is not much you can do about the sounds made by use of the joints and these sounds don't mean you have or will have arthritis. On the whole, the benefits you get out of good exercise like ballet greatly outweigh the danger of getting arthritis of the ankle joints.

SO YOU WANT TO BE

By ERNIE HOOD

Jacqueline W., Philadelphia, Pa., writes: "I am contemplating a career in nursing, and would like to know if there is a job demand."

Dear Jacqueline: Employment opportunities for registered nurses are expected to be very good during the remainder of the 1970s. For nurses who have had graduate training, the outlook is excellent for obtaining positions as administrators, teachers, clinical specialists, public health nurses and for researchers.

Jeanie L., Seattle, Wash., inquires: "Will you please provide me with information on telephone operators?"

Dear Jeanie: Employment of telephone operators is expected to rise moderately in the 1970s. In addition, many job opportunities will become available in this field through retirements, transfers, etc.

Dorothy S., Simpson, Pa., asks: "What can you tell me about the future for social workers?"

Dear Dorothy: Employment opportunities for social workers are expected to be excellent all through the 1970s. Development of a more complex urban society has greatly increased the need for more organized social services.

Note to Marcia M., Troy, Ohio; Re: your inquiry on X-ray technicians, get a copy of U.S. Labor Department Bulletin 1650-16. It sells for 10 cents at the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

Note to Richard C., Cottonport, La.: The Occupational Outlook Handbook, published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, will provide you with requested information on careers and occupations. There are copies in most public libraries, or you can buy the volume for $6.25 through the Superintendent of Documents.

U.S. Labor Department Bulletins are sources of in-depth information on career fields. They can be obtained through the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402. For Nursing, ask for Bulletin 1650-9, priced at 15 cents; for Telephone Operators, ask for Bulletin 1650-55, priced at 10 cents; and for Social Workers, ask for Bulletin 1650-45, also priced at 10 cents.

QUICK QUIZ

Q—Does the alligator pear come from a pear tree?
A—No, it comes from a tropical tree that is a member of the laurel family. It gets its name from its shape and leathery hide.
Q—What city in Mexico is often called the "Williamsburg of Latin America"?
A—Taxco, which looks like an old Spanish town. To preserve the town's appearance the government has made it illegal to erect buildings in the contemporary style.

Eating What Comes Naturally

By WILSON MacDOUGALL

NEW YORK — (NEA) — There are some threads of unity among the American people, especially in the area of environmental awareness. This awareness cuts through all ages and through all kinds of bags. Along with it has come an interest in organic, or "natural" foods, so strong that Advertising Age magazine calls these foods "the fastest growing segment of the entire food market in the 1970s."

Organic food is just food. It's raised naturally, without chemical fertilizers and pesticides. The soil is worked with compost, the rich, humus substance that results from the decomposition of anything that was once alive. Plants love it.

There's a good chance the demand for organic food will outrun the supply this summer and, in many cases, supply already has fallen behind. It's one reason why organic food costs more. Others are that distribution systems are hardly organized and most of the food is sold through small, independent retailers. There's also more time and effort involved in growing things without the conveniences of modern chemical farming.

But the people who eat organically would rather pay a little more than eat meals laced with many of the 10,000 food additives one can find in our supermarkets. They consider the food more nutritious and more flavorful.

To fill the demand, health food stores are opening everywhere. In San Francisco, Fred Rohe has organized a group of over-30 people called "Organic Merchants"—OM for short. Rohe himself operates two New Age Natural Food Stores, both supermarkets of organic produce and products. The number of natural food stores has doubled in the Bay Area in the last two years.

In the East the Erewhon Trading Co. of Boston ships tons of organic rice each week. In New York, small and established health food stores like Pete's on Second Avenue near 7th Street are overwhelmed.

The business isn't without dangers. Some chemical, processed food makes its way into stores to pass for organic food, but merchants are trying desperately to protect their reputations and the purity of their products. At a recent California meeting of organic merchants, they started an organic certification program.

Stores aren't the only way to get organic food. You can grow it yourself. Or you can join the food co-op (the one in Berkeley, Calif., serves more than 400 persons a day), which are springing up all over the country.

The Rodale Press in Emmaus, Pa., publisher of Organic Gardening and Farming magazine, would like to see organic growing and distribution kept in small channels. They see the possibility of the movement being co-opted by the large distributors and chain stores, and the concept being watered down.

If enough people demand organic food, America will have to change its way of farming. Organic environmentalists says our present farming methods destroy cropland by removing humus and nutrients and putting back only chemicals. To say nothing of breaking the ecological web with pesticides. They say food raised on poor land will be poor in quality, even if it has no bug spots.

At the heart of this change in eating that's beginning to take place is a whole theory of organic living—a very radical idea

My "Pop"

... a grand guy in any language. A very special fellow at our house. Without him around night brings fright. But for him we couldn't eat as well, nor as much. He may be gruff at times; he may be firm when he disciplines. And we may answer "yessir" in agreement when he commands, but he is the very foundation of everything at our house.

It takes him to silence the doggie ... to persuade Jr. ... to laud sister's successes and to heap high praise on all the things mother does ... that's "My Pop". They possess rare qualities, these fathers. A good one is a source of joy to every child. Then on this Father's Day, let him have it right in the heart. Aim all the good things at him. Give him the treatment he so justly deserves and make him wish for another Father's Day very soon. Play with him but also pray with him. Be a worshiper with him at your church this week.

$155 Million Asked to Fight Drugs

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's plan to spend $155 million more on federal anti-drug programs has come under congressional attack as too little, too late or old.

Nonetheless, there was overwhelming praise on Capitol Hill for the sense of urgency Nixon placed on meeting the drug-abuse problem by his emphasis on addict education and rehabilitation.

"The money the President asked for wouldn't begin to take care of New York City alone," said Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., chairman of the House Select Committee on Crime. "Hundreds of millions of dollars at least are required."

But Sen. Harold Hughes, D-Iowa, chairman of the Senate narcotics subcommittee, said: "Much more attention is given to the reclamation of the drug user himself than in previous administration proposals which generally concentrated much more on trying to cut off the supply of dangerous drugs than in trying to control the demand for them."

Hughes said it remains to be seen if the Justice Department will continue its dominant role in drug control rather than professionals in the health field.

In his message to Congress, Nixon said $105 million of the $155 million would go for treatment and rehabilitation. With the additional funds the total government spending on anti-drug plans would total $370 million in fiscal 1972.

Nixon said he wanted to "tighten the noose around the necks of the drug peddlers and thereby loosen the noose around the necks of drug users."

Nixon named Dr. Jerome H. Jaffe, 37, to head the new special action office overseeing the drug abuse program. Jaffe now directs the Illinois drug abuse program and helped pioneer development of methadone as a substitute for heroin addiction.

Nixon said the new office would set policy and oversee all federal research on fighting drug addiction.

Nixon said he was ordering an immediate testing and rehabilitation program in Vietnam where an estimated 30,000 GIs are addicts. He also asked for legislation allowing the military to hold on active duty any GI believed hooked on drugs.

Strikers Are Back at Work

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Many of the estimated 50,000 coal miners idled in a wildcat strike since midnight Sunday have gone back to work under urging from United Mine Workers President W. A. "Tony" Boyle.

"I appreciate your expressions of solidarity and urgently recommend that you return to work immediately," Boyle said Thursday after a federal judge in Washington advised him to issue a "direct order."

The walkout was described by union leaders as a show of support for Boyle who was removed by a court order as a trustee of the UMW's $150-million welfare and retirement fund.

The gradual back-to-work movement began Thursday when U.S. District Court Judge Gerhard Gesell of Washington told Boyle he would be held in contempt unless miners were back on their jobs before Monday morning, the time of a scheduled court appearance for the UMW leader.

Admiral Takes New Command

YOKOSUKA, Japan (AP) — Vice Adm. William P. Mack took command of the U.S. Seventh Fleet, the world's largest seagoing force, in a ceremony today at this U.S. naval base south of Tokyo.

The 56-year-old Mack, a native of Hillsboro, Ill., succeeded Vice Adm. Maurice F. Weisner, who will assume the post of deputy chief of naval operations for air in Washington.

Mack was deputy assistant secretary of defense for manpower and reserve affairs before assuming his new post.

The ceremony was held aboard the carrier Midway.

Pageant at Palmyra

A spectacular attraction of the summer season is the Mormon Pageant on Hill Cumorah near Palmyra, N.Y., an annual event since 1937 which draws upwards of 100,000 visitors from throughout the nation. Scheduled this year July 26-31, the pageant recreates on 25 stages over an area larger than a football field the Mormon story of the destruction of an ancient American civilization.

Opposition to Job Bill Is Dropped

By JOE HALL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic sources say the administration has dropped objections to a bill creating 150,000 to 200,000 public service jobs and is seeking a less expensive compromise.

But Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said Thursday he is not too hopeful Democrats, particularly in the House, will bend to avoid a possible presidential veto.

President Nixon vetoed a public service jobs bill last December, declaring much of the employment would be dead-end.

The new Congress immediately started work on a new measure, contending the jobs are needed because of continuing high unemployment, and money-strapped city and state governments' lack of workers in essential services.

The Senate passed a $1.75-billion bill on April 1. The House expanded it into a $5-billion program June 2.

Senate-House conferees learned Wednesday afternoon the White House might have a change of mind, Senate sources said.

The sources said Undersecretary of Labor Laurence H. Silberman met with leaders of the conference delegations to see if they could work out a compromise acceptable to Nixon.

The conference called off a meeting scheduled Thursday in view of the negotiations, and set up a new one for next Tuesday.

Silberman talked with Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., chairman of the Senate group, and Javits, senior Republican member, as well as Rep. Carl D. Perkins, D-Ky., head of the House delegation.

It was understood the administration asked the conferees to recommend the less costly Senate bill, along with the House's veterans-preference provision.

Javits said if such a compromise is made he would hope Nixon would sign it.

The Senate sources said the President might be planning to use the House provision to provide jobs for 370,000 unemployed Vietnam war veterans.

NO CLUES ON

by the Rand Corporation.

There were also these developments:

—The Times, while declining to comment on Zion's report, said today it had learned the FBI was concentrating its investigation of the leak on Ellsberg as early as Monday.

—The New York Daily News quoted government sources in today's edition as saying Ellsberg was "one of several persons" suspected of leaking the material. At least two other publications were offered the documents in recent weeks but turned them down, the News added.

—The St. Louis Post-Dispatch quoted a "senior official of the executive branch" Thursday as saying the investigation of the leak was "centering" on Ellsberg.

In Detroit, Harry Ellsberg, the missing man's father, said he had not seen his son since last August and didn't know where he is. But he assumed Daniel was on vacation.

He described his son, a former Marine and Harvard graduate, as a man who had become a vigorous opponent of the war since his experience in Vietnam.

"He's mentioned in his letters that there is an awful lot of stuff on record in the Pentagon that will come out some day," the father said.

The 40-year-old Ellsberg was one of former Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's "whiz kids" at the Pentagon and served in the U.S. embassy in Saigon.

now called the "domino theory"—if one part of Indochina fell to the Communists and there was no Western intervention the rest would fall, leading to danger for U.S. allies in the rest of Asia and Europe.

—Eisenhower, although approving the planning of the position paper, refused to intervene on behalf of the French without allied participation and congressional approval. The British refused.

TIMES GIVES UP

ton Post article draws upon some of the same documents the Times used, and that the Post is disseminating its series to 345 clients of the Washington Post-Los Angeles Times News Service.

In an advisory to editors, the Post said that its series was based on the study that Gurfein had ordered the Times to stop printing but that nothing in its article "could be used to injure the United States."

The Post story today said the Pentagon study asserts there was no connivance in 1955 between the United States and the Saigon regime to prevent elections throughout Vietnam as agreed to by the Geneva Conference a year earlier.

The Times had opened its court argument by stating that the series did not in any way "endanger or injure American Forces."

The Times acted voluntarily Thursday on the urging of U.S. Dist. Court Judge Murray I. Gurfein who withheld any immediate action on the government's demand to inspect the Times' documents.

Gurfein ruled out a government request to see all classified material in the Times' files, saying, "I'm not tolerating any fishing expedition into the files of any newspaper."

The documents sought by Assty. U.S. Atty. Michael D. Hess were a 47-volume secret Pentagon study entitled "History of U.S. Decision-Making Process on Vietnam Policy" and a summary of "The Command and Control Study of the Tonkin Gulf Incident."

The Times suspended publication of the controversial series after Gurfein issued a temporary restraining order Tuesday and scheduled today's full dress injunction hearing for 10 a.m.

In a brief filed late Thursday for today's hearing, the government said it would argue that while the First Amendment guarantees the freedom of speech and press "it is equally clear that these freedoms are not absolute."

There were also these developments in the case:

—The chairman of the House government information subcommittee, Rep. William S. Moorhead, D-Pa., said the case has spurred plans for a major reappraisal of the government's secrecy policy and possible overclassification or misclassification of some documents.

—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., called for full disclosure of secret government data on Vietnam policies during the administration of President John F. Kennedy, saying "The public ought to be the final judge of the whole period of the 1960s, and before, in Vietnam."

—Daniel Ellsberg, an MIT researcher, was named by a former Times newsmen, Sidney Zion, as the man who gave the documents to the newspaper. Zion did not disclose the source of his information and Ellsberg was not available for comment.

—Former Secretary of State Dean Rusk said in Decatur, Ga., that he had "never heard" of the secret study before reading of it in the Times and "did not know why" the Pentagon would prepare such an analysis without consulting him.

—Former President Lyndon B. Johnson said in a statement that the manuscript of a forthcoming book on his White House years was complete and would not be changed as a result of the publication of the secret papers.

The three installments of the series which the Times printed before the restraining order was issued dealt with events leading up to the Tonkin Gulf incident, the Johnson administration's decision to bomb North Vietnam and its decision to use American ground troops in combat.

In its original move against the Times, the government contended that newspaper unlawfully obtained the data and through its publication "prejudiced the defense interests of the United States."

Further publication would "result in irreparable injury to the United States," the complaint added. It asked the court to direct the Times to hand over all its documents.
